REDS ARE NEARING PLAINS BEFORE BERLIN

By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—Victorious Russian armies returned to Kunersdorf battlefield today, four miles east of Frankfurt, and Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's forces crashed through the German defenses on the same spot where the Russians defeated Frederick the Great in 1759. Zhukov's First White Russian Army thrust through the Nazi defenses east of the Oder river between Frankfurt and Kustrin and pushed over the last few miles separating the Russians from the east bank of the river, a little more than 30 miles from the outskirts of Berlin.

Hear Artillery In Berlin
As the thunder of their artillery sounded continually louder in the German capital, it was believed that the wide Russian front had reached the east bank of the Oder at several points and front dispatches said that Red army troops would have a grandstand seat for the next Allied air assault on Berlin.

PA NEWC Observes

This is the ninth consecutive Monday in which snow has fallen in this area, Pa Newc is informed.

Did you fall this morning? It was hard to keep in the perpendicular on the icy sidewalks caused by the drizzle or rain Sunday afternoon and evening. Walking was especially hazardous on the hills.

Probably the safest, most sure-footed pedestrian in New Castle Sunday evening was the skater who was skating along Liberty street in Mahoningtown—yes, on a pair of ice skates.

And then there were the people who got up early this morning to put ashes on the sidewalks to make it easier for other people to get to the buses. A few really did that.

One section of roadway which should be dug out has resulted in a number of motorists being stuck. This is at the intersection of North Mercer street and Leasure avenue, a route used by many going to the Jameson Memorial hospital. Ruts which have been worn by north and southbound traffic are so deep that cars have to pass over at the slowest possible speed to avoid a broken spring. This results in cars being stuck in these ruts, and they cannot get out, even with chains on.

Week-end weather in New Castle and Lawrence county was varied. Sunday morning it was real cold. During the day the temperature

RED ARMY TANKS RUMBLE ALONG ROAD TO BERLIN

Along a snow-covered military highway in Poland, Red Army tanks push in the general direction of Berlin. A preponderance of heavy equipment like the weapons pictured above is responsible for the success of the Russian offensives. The Nazis are still unable to check the drives.

Japanese Sea Route Of Supply Is Cut With Fall Of Manila

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—American troops are again in Manila. Elements of the First Cavalry Division (dismounted) drove straight to the heart of the city and seized Santo Tomas, concentration camp.

The First Cavalry Division entered Manila from the east. The 37th Infantry Division assaulted from the north. Sunday night it was in the northern suburbs of the Philippine capital. The 24th and 38th Infantry divisions, which landed on the west coast, have driven eastward across the base of the Bataan peninsula. As of Sunday night, their penetration was six miles deep.

The 11th Division which landed on the west coast but south of the entrance to the Manila Bay, as of last night had penetrated nine miles inland. Completely Surrounded Thus you see Manila has not only been entered, but the city is completely surrounded. The Japanese have no chance. Unless their main forces have withdrawn southward, they are doomed.

Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger recently declared the Japanese high command was without strategy. Today it appears that the Nipponese are not only without strategy—they don't even know how to organize the defense of a city.

The loss of Manila and its bay will mean definitely that the Japanese sea route of supply, from the Nipponese home islands via the China and South China seas to the Malayan peninsula, will be cut. That means the beginning of the end of their stolen empire.

Sniper Activity

Gen. MacArthur reports severe sniper activity within Manila. Perhaps that means that the capture of Manila will resolve itself into a bloody mopping-up operation. That will, without doubt, take place in all of their stolen possessions.

Record of Gallantry

The assault of the First Cavalry Division against Manila is marked with greatest gallantry. Its major objective was to reach the heart of the city and seize the concentration camp located there, before the Japanese might be tempted to turn their vengeance loose on the interned survivors of the Bataan death march. Judging from all reports, the rescue work was entirely successful. It is, however, obvious that the advanced elements of the First, because of their rescue mission, drove at top speed regardless of consequences, mines or road blocks, straight to the place of the prison.

Because of that gallantry, we hope there again will be long lists in our papers of American and Filipino internees who have been released.

SEVEN CARS OF COAL ARRIVE

Emergency Fuel Committee Secretary Harold Woods reported today there had been a let-down in orders for domestic coal. He said that some dealers delivered coal Sunday. Mayor John F. Haven said he learned there were seven cars of coal here today.

Russian Drive Frees 100,000 French

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, Manila, Feb. 4.—(Delayed)—On this unforgettable night I was walled in this internment camp among 3,700 liberated men, women and children.

One of the unforgettable things was the slow smile of wonderment on the pale tense face of a little girl of four tasting chocolate for the first time, her entranced eyes filled with tears of gratitude. It is now 5 a. m. We were received here at 8 o'clock last night to the wonderful tune of voices raised in pure joy. After eight hours the sounds of happiness still filled the rooms.

Weak From Treatment

All of these people are weak from their long internment and wretched diet. There is hardly a person here who can climb a flight of stairs without resting at least once to gain new strength. However, the memories of three long cruel years tonight are forgotten. A little boy with big shining eyes looked up to me and said: "Will we have food now? Real food? Tomorrow morning, too?"

A little girl who weighed only half what she should whispered softly: "My name is Louise. You came on my birthday." The misery of the internees and the gratitude, too, are almost indescribable. Almost everyone has Beri-Beri, Pellagra or malnutrition; the men lost an average of 31

Public Schools Resumes Today

New Castle's public schools resumed classes this morning at nine o'clock after a week's idleness due to the coal shortage. Sufficient coal was secured in the past week to warrant the resumption of classes and with some economies in fuel consumption it is thought the schools will not be closed again.

In order to conserve fuel only day light classes will be held. All night activities are cancelled until the fuel shortage is eased. This includes night classes, athletics and meetings.

Surprisingly few vacancies were seen in the teaching staff this morning. There were a few absences because of sickness and a few that were not able to get in to New Castle due to icy roads, but the vacancies were few.

TURNPIKE SHOWS LOSS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6.—(INS)—A half-million dollar loss was recorded by the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission in operating revenues from the 160-mile express road during 1944, a spokesman reported today.

He said 1,038,527 motorists paid $1,779,370 to use the highway between Irwin and Carlisle but it was approximately $500,000 under operational needs.

WOMEN SPEND MORE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—(INS)—A U. S. bureau of labor report on families in the Philadelphia area disclosed today that mildly spent about 30 per cent more for clothes last year than did the males.

Food and beverage expenditures of housekeeping families in the area averaged $16.85 a week during September and October, the report said.

By CAPTAIN ARTHUR WIMER
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—The name of Westminster College, in New Wilmington, will soon be carried into the far ports of the world on the bow of a new Victory cargo ship now under construction, the United States Maritime Commission announced today.

Forty of the oldest educational institutions in the country have been selected for the honor of having new Victory ships bear their names into foreign waters. Five of these are in the Keystone State. In addition to Westminster, the Pennsylvania schools awarded this distinction are Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Dickinson College at Carlisle, Lehigh University at Bethlehem, and Lehigh University at Bethlehem.

Building In Oregon

The five new ships when completed will be christened the Westminster Victory, Bucknell Victory, Dickinson Victory, Beaver Victory, and Lehigh Victory.

The Westminster Victory is now under construction in the Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation at Portland, Oregon. Date and other details of the launching are not yet available.

The Victory ships are improved versions of the old Liberty cargo vessels which played such an important role in overcoming the original advantage of Germany and Japan.

British Bombers Blast At Nazis

The London Daily Telegram estimated that more than 5,000 American and British planes struck at Nazi objectives over the week-end, dropping some 15,000 tons of bombs.

Manila Occupation Provides Fine Harbor For American Forces

(International News Service)

Occupation of Manila, oft-called the "Pearl of the Orient," will provide U. S. forces with one of the finest harbors in the Far East. Lying only 624 miles from the great naval base of Hong Kong on the Chinese mainland, Manila occupies a commanding position in navigation to southeast Asia.

Before Pearl Harbor, it was one of the most modern cities in the Far East, elevated to the status of a metropolis by American engineering skill.

In addition to a splendid water and sanitation system and scores of Catholic churches, some dating back to the Spanish regime, Manila had a network of bridges and boulevards lined with tall, air-conditioned buildings, fine apartment houses, hotels, clubs and residences comparing favorably with those in the United States.

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Feb. 4.—(Sunday)—(Delayed)—Jap defenders of the great Grace Park airfield on the outskirts of Manila were faced with a difficult choice today—whether to remain in the flaming buildings and burn to death, or make a suicidal "banzai" charge and die under the guns of alert Yank infantrymen standing vigilant guard on the airstrips.

From the plane in which we flew over the airfield, we could see the strips littered with wrecked enemy aircraft and the buildings and hangars were a mass of raging flames, touched off by our merciless bombing and artillery attacks.

Farther south, dense clouds of black smoke mushroomed eight to ten thousand feet into the clear sky, giving mute evidence that the doomed Japs in the city itself were destroying waterfront facilities that still remained usable after weeks of heavy pounding by our air force.

Quiet, peace-loving Manila seemed to be a seething city as seen from the air. Some areas over

Safe Conduct Given Japs To Save Hostages

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, Manila, Feb. 5.—Escorted by four columns of cavalrymen, 65 armed Japanese officers and men marched from the University of Santo Tomas education building before dawn this morning through American lines to the safety of their own.

Their release freed more than 250 American and British internees who had been held captive by the Japs for 36 hours. The Japs, led by Lt. Col. Hayashi, Santo Tomas commandant, took refuge in the education building, which is about 50 yards from the main administration building, when Yank cavalrymen broke into the university grounds Saturday night.

Up until last night the Japs fired on the American soldiers on the campus. The Americans returned fire, but yesterday morning the Japs called from the first floor, mingling with internees, and from the second and third floors.

Fared To Shoot

The Americans were then powerless to return the fire for fear of hitting the internees.

Yesterday, Col. Hayashi opened negotiations with Lt. Col. Charles Brady, of Wethorn, N. J., executive officer of the cavalry brigade commanded by Brig. Gen. William Chas. of El Paso, Tex.

His terms were safe release for the Japanese in the building or they would fight to the bitter end. Col. Brady was accompanied by

STARS AND STRIPES FLOAT OVER CITY

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Feb. 5.—Elements of two American divisions, returning the Stars and Stripes to Manila after three years of enemy occupation, consolidated their gains in the northern half of the city today as other Yanks raced from the south to trap an estimated 10,000 Japs below the Pasig river.

While troops of the famed First Cavalry and 37th Infantry divisions prepared to drive the Japs from that part of the city south of the Pasig after storming into the Philippine capital and seizing the Malacanán palace, Santo Tomas concentration camp, and Grace Park airfield spearheads of the 11th Airborne Division stormed over the last approaches to Manila.

Advancing from Batangas and Cavite provinces, the skytroopers of the U. S. Eighth army were reported within eight to 10 airline miles below Manila.

Also Approach Manila

According to International News Service War Correspondent Clark Lee, the Eighth army units were said to be "at Cavite," site of a huge naval base just southwest of the metropolis. They were approaching Manila, "where they will take Jap forces south of the Pasig from the rear," Lee added.

Shortly after Gen. Douglas MacArthur—whose liberating drive into Manila made good his pledge to return—announced that "approximately 3,700" civilians were rescued when Santo Tomas was taken by the First Cavalry. Lee revealed that 300 other internees were held as hostages by the Japs.

Dismissing the traditional Samurai code by which they are supposed to die to save face, the Japs haggled for their safe conduct out of the city offering as their currency the safety of the 300 men, women and children.

Terms Accepted

International News Service War Correspondent Frank Robertson, in a dispatch filed this morning from Santo Tomas university inside Manila, said that the Japs' terms were accepted and the enemy troops—led by Lieut. Col. Hayashi—were escorted through the American lines after the other internees were released.

Though the Japs did effect such an exchange, they stood a good chance of being trapped by the Eighth army troops advancing from the south to join the Sixth army forces which stormed into Manila from two directions in a liberating surge personally directed by MacArthur.

The enemy commander evidently did not realize that Lieut. Gen. Robert

NEW TYPE DIESEL
Engine Invented

MT. VERNON, O., Feb. 5.—(INS)—The Cooper-Bessmer Corporation today disclosed it has developed a new type of Diesel engine which operates with either gas or oil as fuel without any electrical parking device and which will cut fuel consumption from 20 to 25 per cent.

Ralph L. Boyer chief engineer, said the new discovery is the result of experimentation which began in 1928. The new engine, he explained, can operate on a wide variety of fuels, including fuel oil, natural gas, manufactured gas and coke oven gases, sewage gas and refinery by-products.

The conversion from liquid to gas fuel is simply a matter of closing one valve and opening another, with the engine operating continuously at full load, he explained.

Speculate On Roosevelt Veto

Proposals To Tighten George "Agency Divorce" Bill Bring Attention To Possible Veto

By William Theis (N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The threatened fight over tightening the George "agency divorce" bill brought capital speculation today that President Roosevelt would veto such legislation and toss the issue back to congress by reorganizing the disputed lending agencies through executive order.

Congressional sources believed that, however serious a clash might develop between the White House and Capitol Hill, action on Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Henry A. Wallace to be commerce secretary probably will be delayed for weeks.

President Roosevelt, house leaders pointed out, agreed to accept the George bill as it left the senate. The Republican amendments to prevent the president from shifting any agencies without congressional sanction, they emphasized, go far beyond that. The revisions were expected, however, to receive conservative Democratic support.

"Put Congress On Spot"

One source said Mr. Roosevelt might choose to put congress "on the spot" by himself stripping commerce of its lending agencies, immediately nominating an "acceptable" director to head them, and then let the senate take responsibility for rejecting Wallace if it wished.

Should such a situation eventually develop, it would have some of the aspects of the "Barkley incident" of just a year ago. In that clash, Senate Majority Leader Barkley openly broke with Mr. Roosevelt over his denunciation of congress in the 1944 tax bill veto message.

Economic Stabilizer Fred Vinson was reported Mr. Roosevelt's most likely choice to head the loan agency, although some strong support has been evidenced for Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser.

The bill of Sen. George (D) Ga. would transfer the federal loan agency and its lending subsidiaries from the commerce department. The proposed amendments of Rep. Wolcott (R) Mich. would:

1. Prevent the president from using his war powers to shift any agencies;
 2. Remove the commerce secretary from the board of directors of the Export-Import Bank and;
 3. Require that the comptroller-general audit all agencies and corporations in which the government owns 51 per cent or more of the stock.
- The first and second of these, Wolcott conceded, were aimed at limiting Wallace's power should he be confirmed.

RUSSIAN ARMIES MAKE READY FOR BERLIN SMASH

German radio stations and news agencies kept a strange silence. For the first five hours after the DNB service's opening time today it sent no dispatches. No German radio station has issued any news of eastern front fighting since last night.

One broadcast, which gave no military news, said that the new home service slogan for the German republic was "unconditional resistance."

Seek To Bring Up Reserves

Stubborn German forces, apparently determined to hold the main body of Zhukov's forces away from the Oder as long as possible, appeared to be continuing their attempts to bring up reserves from the western bank.

Nevertheless, it was believed that the Oder east of Berlin had been reached by the Russians at several points and it seemed that the first stage of Zhukov's drive toward the German capital was drawing to a close.

Front reports said that Zhukov was now in position for a breakthrough into the open terrain before Berlin.

The sudden blow, which might mark the penultimate of the battle for Berlin, followed the flanking drive north and south of the 17-mile line which German spokesmen said reached the Oder northwest of Kustrin at points 33 miles from the Reich capital.

Zhukov's columns toppled the Danzig-Kustrin railway town of Baerwalde, spread to within 33 miles of Berlin, according to Nazi reports, captured a series of enemy towns along a line extending from north-west of Kustrin to Ziebingen, 15 miles southeast of Frankfurt, southern anchor of the Oder defense line.

The German radio, which announced the Red sweep to the river northwest of Kustrin, said Soviet pressure was increasing in almost every sector as Zhukov hammered at the last natural barrier protecting the barricaded and panic-stricken Reich capital.

In fierce fighting which overran more than 100 towns on the central invasion road to Berlin, the Germans "brought up fresh reserves and threw them into the battle of the day," every sector as Zhukov high command announced. More than 5,000 prisoners were taken in the day's fighting.

Meanwhile, German front dispatches spoke of "several" Russian bridgeheads across the Oder, including one "nearly 10 miles deep." These penetrations, if they exist, probably are in Silesia between Breslau and Glogau.

Drive Toward Stettin

The Nazis also reported a Red smash to within 24 miles of Stettin, Pomeranian capital and Berlin's outlet to the Baltic sea, where it was reported the Red fleet now rained at will.

Capture of Neudamm by the Soviets indicated a plan to squeeze the 17-mile fortified Kustrin-Frankfurt defense line from the north and south while huge tank battles raged before the line itself.

Baerwalde, 38 miles from Berlin and five miles from the Oder, was engulfed by an armored drive which smashed 17 miles northwest from Vietz, taken Sunday afternoon. Another Red force hammered 15 miles southwest from Sternberg, to seize Ziebingen, 15 miles southeast of Frankfurt.

Neudamm fell during the flanking advance that seized Baerwalde, which lies 38 miles south of Stettin. German reports said the Reds had reached Pyritz, only 24 miles southeast of Stettin and 17 north of captured Soldin. An unconfirmed Paris radio report placed Russian columns within nine and one-half miles of Stettin.

Split Nazi Forces

In East Prussia, meanwhile, other tank and artillery-supported Russian forces swept northwest of Koenigsberg to the shores of Danzig Bay, splitting the German's Sauerland peninsula troops in two.

The town of Cranitz, 15 miles north of Koenigsberg, was among more than 30 localities cleared by the Russians in the battles north and northwest of the encircled East Prussian capital.

In this area, "the battlefields are littered with dead Hitlerites and enemy technical equipment and arms, the Soviet communique declared. "Soviet troops have pressed the enemy groups toward the seashore and are wiping them out," Moscow reported.

In a number of cases, German soldiers before being killed, SS men and officers who forced them to continue the struggle."

City Council Monday authorized payment of $74.83 to Wayne Sines, radio technician, for repair and cost of parts in connection with the city police broadcasting system.

U. S. FORCES ARE CLOSING IN ON JAPS IN MANILA

er Eichelberger's U. S. Eighth army forces coming up from Nichols Field had him in a pincers," declared Lee in a front dispatch.

"The first Japanese admission that Americans have entered Manila came early today in a Tokyo broadcast reported by the Blue network. The enemy radio admitted American forces penetrated the northern part of Manila and said Japanese troops are now "engaged in action" at Santo Tomas university.

Culminates Whirlwind Drive

Culminating a whirlwind crusade, which saw the first Yankee stamp ashore at Lingayen gulf 115 miles to the north only 26 days earlier, advance elements of the U. S. Sixth army burst into Manila at 6:50 o'clock Saturday evening. First into the city was a force of "less than 800" cavalymen of the famed First division, thus making good a vow taken a year ago in the dark jungles of the Admiralty islands, they were followed quickly by larger forces.

The First Cavalry division troops at the time swore to lead the way into the Philippines capital to avenge their former commander, Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright who was taken prisoner by the Japs when Corregidor fell in May 1942.

Shortly after the cavalymen fighting as a mechanized unit, engaged the capital from the east to wind up a three-day drive, the advance of more than 100 miles, the equally-famous 37th Infantry division stabbed into the city from the north.

House to House Battle

Fighting from house to house immediately was precipitated, with the Japs battling from well-built defenses and flimsy huts turned into strongpoints. Grimly the Yanks dug the enemy out and within little more than five hours after the First Cavalry division raced into the city, the Palace—seat of the Filipino government—the concentration camp and the airfields were in American hands.

Gen. MacArthur, who announced triumphantly that "our troops have entered Manila," declared just as dramatically:

"They now stand guard there over the internees while the remainder of the division is coming up from the east."

Japs Being Crushed

As the two way blow was being dealt the Japs seeking to hold the capital at least until it could be fired in desperation, other Americans stormed northward from Batangas province to within 18 air-line miles below the city, rendering more insecure the position of the formidable-armed enemy forces in the old portion of the city south of the Pasig river. These Japs appeared destined to be crushed as the nut-cracker being applied by the Sixth army and elements of the northward moving U. S. Eighth army.

Highlighting the Eighth army's campaign was the First U. S. parachute invasion of the Philippines. Troops of the 11th Airborne division, some of whom went ashore Wednesday when landings were made at Batangas province, dropped from the skies and seized Tagaytay ridge in Cavite province.

Three-Way Squeeze

As the Americans applied a three-way squeeze on the Japs remaining in the Manila bay area, MacArthur threw the weight of his airforce into the fray. Four-motored bombers blasted Cavite and Corregidor, twin bastions dominating the landlocked harbor approaches. Tremendous explosions and raging fires were touched off.

Additional swarms of Yank warplanes raked Japanese shipping to catch any of the Mikado's forces attempting to escape.

Lieut. Col. Hasket Conner, 28-year-old cavalymen, commanded the First division units entering Manila. International News Service War Correspondent Frank Robertson indicated that in this phase, the clock-work which guided the entire Luzon campaign, went awry insofar as timing of the entry was concerned—but no one was disappointed, for the Yanks penetrated the city before the enemy could escape. Sweeping down by a circuitous route from Lingayen at speeds which ate up as much as 65 miles in a single 24-hour period, the First Cavalry detachment overcame a 50-mile lead held by the infantrymen of the 37th On Saturday, Robertson said, the dismounted horsemen overcame "stubborn and strong" resistance at Navaliches, 10 miles outside Manila.

Filipinos Joyful

Fires still were burning in the city as the enthusiastic Yanks raced into the metropolis under cover of darkness and through a hail of machine-gun fire, ignorant and disdainful of the probable enemy strength.

Filipinos, joyful at lifting of the Japanese yoke after three years, one month and a day of Jap occupation, greeted the liberators with Yanks warmly. The entrance into the capital was glorious, but in many ways pathetic.

for three years the prison home of 3,700 American and other allied nationals.

The atmosphere was tense as half our forces lined the road outside the darkened university grounds and others prepared to smash their way inside. Gun positions outside the grounds were speedily knocked out and riflemen picked off Jap snipers firing from nearby buildings.

With lights blazing, the tanks tumbled forward and crashed thru the iron gates of the university and the main building passing huge ammunition dumps.

With a protecting cordon of Yanks thrown around the university, others streamed in to witness the never-to-be-forgotten spectacle of the liberation of the internees—fitting compensation for their headlong and sleepless drive to Manila.

INVASION SCENES IN MANILA SEEN BY CORRESPONDENT

which we flew were absolutely devoid of human activity. In other sectors we saw Filipinos darting furtively from door to door while Yank infantrymen shouldered their way forward.

Occasionally we could see the dull red flash of machine-gun fire through the muck.

Enthusiastic Welcome

Never have we seen, in the three months that our liberation forces have fought on Leyte, Mindoro, Samar and Luzon, such an enthusiastic welcome as the citizens of Manila offered.

One woman, burdened with a load of laundry, and showing a wide, toothy grin, threw the bundle into the air, then alternately jumped and waved the brightly colored wash in our direction.

Small groups of joyful Filipinos seemed to be collecting wherever it seemed safe—just waiting for a chance to wave at any Yank that passed by.

South of the city, the road from Calumpit to Manila is jammed with traffic—all speeding in the same direction toward the capital. Miles of jeeps, trucks, ducks, amtracs and artillery pieces roar down the white road in a torrent of men and supplies. Gaily-dressed Filipinos, backs bowed with household possessions and food and towing the inevitable carabao, also were on the move. They too, were headed in the same direction—home.

South from Calumpit, the railway is in perfect condition. From the air it is easy to see the numerous opportunities the Japs missed to blow up strategic arterial rail crossings.

Manila may be scorched, but it certainly is not burned out yet, and from either the air or ground it still is the most lucrative, the most promising Pacific prize our American troops have yet seen.

An English missionary, Ernest Stanley, who acted as interpreter, Stanley made frequent trips into the building, carrying real corn mush to the internees and removing dead bodies of soldiers who were killed in the first night of fighting.

Anxious to insure the safety of the internees, Gen. Chase decided to obey Hayashi's terms.

They saluted, and the Japs moved on the last half mile to their own line at a run. The Americans, covered by a rear guard, returned to the campus in time to see the joyous internees coming from the building to embrace their American liberators.

Not Counting On Collapse

Capture of the German capital is a secondary objective of the Soviet offensive. What the Allies are aiming at is the steady destruction of enemy armies wherever they may be found and, by this means, impressing on the German people and leaders the fact that utter defeat is their sure fate.

That anybody in the Reich now thinks that German can win is unbelievable. While Goebbels has not admitted as much publicly, his actions indicate that he knows the jig is up. He has summed the young, the aged, the halt and the lame to a last-ditch defense.

Under the conditions, which are similar to those which obtained in the smaller states overrun by Hitler's forces at the beginning of the war, most countries would collapse. This may be the case in Germany, but the Allies are not counting on it. They are operating on the theory that all of the Reich must be occupied, and they are demonstrating that they have the power to do it. How much time it will take is anybody's guess.

Good Suggestion

New York City possesses hospitals which have names of fragrant associations, such as the Flower hospital. But it also has hospitals with most depressing names. A suggestion to improve the names of hospitals is contained in a letter written to a New York newspaper by a reader. It follows:

"I read an account in your paper a few days ago of a fine new hospital which is to be erected on Welfare Island for the aged and infirm. This is to replace the old buildings, which must indeed be dreary and inadequate. It is proposed, I believe, to call this the 'Chronic Disease Hospital'."

"I wonder why the average layman (and I may also say many medical men) shows so little imagination in naming hospitals, and appears to have so little understanding of the psychological effect on those forced to take refuge in them. I think all names mentioning diseases of any kind (mental or physical), poverty and lack should be eliminated."

"I hope that those responsible will reconsider the name of this new building. Let it be something other than a constant reminder to the patients of distress and suffering, of which they have no doubt already had more than their share."

There are institutions in all cities of the country which might take this letter to heart and do something about their names.

We Must Use China's Army

In five months of daring operations, Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet has inflicted greater destruction upon the Japanese than any other fleet in history has caused to an enemy.

It took to enemy warships totalling 241,000 tons and 563 merchant ships a grand total of 775,000 tons; destroyed 4370 enemy aircraft and bombed, strafed or destroyed numerous enemy bases, military installations and industrial areas.

But it is almost important to note General Stilwell's remarks that to win final victory over the Japs will take "a long time," and his reference to the potentialities of the Chinese Army. General Stilwell, who ought to know, says the Chinese soldier, when properly led, trained and equipped, is one of the best.

To continue such destructive naval operations as those of Admiral Halsey will involve further problems of supply of enormous dimensions. So would transporting a vast American Army to China. No one could contemplate cancelling our naval and air strokes. They must go on. But while we wait, of course, we have to use substantial American land forces in a China campaign we must not neglect the great possibilities for the creation of a gigantic Chinese Army also.

For the job to be done in China such a force would be essential. The leadership of both America and China should expend every effort to create it. That might not mean a short war, in view of Japan's great power. But it should help to prevent prolonging it.

More Women Than Men

America keeps getting bigger. The Census Bureau reports that U. S. population is now more than 138,000,000, including the armed forces overseas. The nature of the population is changing. Because babies and children get more intelligent care, the life span lengthens and the country has a larger proportion of elderly people. The census report shows another significant change: for the first time there are more women in America than men.

The European countries have long shown an excess of women over men. America has been heading toward that status for many years. As everybody knows, the death rate among women is lower than among men. In other words, women live longer, on the average. This difference has now had its inevitable effect. In 1940 there were 700,000 more men than women; now there are 6,000 more women than men.

Even on the pre-war basis, the new excess of women over men may be expected to increase. No doubt it will cause social changes. Europeans have always been amazed at the great influence of women in American social, artistic, business, and political life. Writers have held that it arose in colonial days when nearly all immigrants were men, who paid exaggerated attention to the few women who were finally brought over.

As women become surplus, perhaps "there'll be some changes made." The girls already have had to take sharp notice of the scarcity of men, now that so many are overseas. Their daughters may find the shortage permanent. But American deference to women's views probably will not disappear for a long time, and on the whole that is a good prospect. Perhaps we could do with a little less of feminine thinking in our way of life, but we would not want to lose it entirely.

Dispatches reveal that Cologne is not, as many had supposed, on the Oder river.

One thing that never seems to develop around most homes is a shortage of conversation.

U. S. service men in the Pacific have sent back 75,000 grass skirts, which, it should be admitted, is a lot of hula-hula.

Following item is of unusual interest to the Japs: "Three times as many B-29s will be produced this year as were turned out in 1944."

Washington Calling

Conference Will Not Solve Future Problems

LONDON, Feb. 5.—How nearly a group of men sitting around a conference table can come to solving the problems that sorely trouble the world today is the question just now in the minds of those here on whom responsibility must ultimately rest.

Britishers I have talked to, both in and out of high office, are fearful that the people both here and in America, but particularly in America, will get the idea that it can all be neatly tied up in some package and marked "solved." They are most anxious to dispel any such illusion.

Will Take Months
They know very well that, whatever Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt may decide, the painful intricacies of Poland, Yugoslavia, Greece and Italy must be worked out in the coming months and years. The fear here is that expectation of a magic formula is almost certain to lead in disappointment with the results of the great confab.

There is, however, a strong determination here to gain at least one lasting objective. That is the creation of a consultative council—perhaps at the foreign minister level—empowered to pass on political and economic questions as they arise.

A month ago Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in the House of Commons proposed quarterly meetings of the foreign secretaries of the three powers. In effect, what he said was an earnest appeal for the kind of machinery that could thresh out problems from day to day instead of letting them accumulate in a vast, untidy pile until the heads of state can get together.

Treated with Scorn
In Washington some time ago a similar proposal had important behind-the-scenes sponsorship. When the idea was batted up to him in a press conference, however, Roosevelt treated it with scorn as the product of columnists' fancy. There is every evidence that the British mean to try, at the coming conference, to get approval for a more or less permanent council to pass on political and economic questions as the joint chiefs of staff now pass on military matters of mutual interest.

If a council of foreign ministers is formed, they would necessarily have to be given powers sufficient to act in their own right without the need for lengthy, delaying consultations with their respective home governments. As originally conceived, the European advisory commission was to have had the power to settle issues arising from day to day.

In practice it has not worked out that way. More and more, at least as the British see it, the advisory commission has been a convenient corner in which to sweep problems no one was ready to decide. Undoubtedly it has performed some useful work in preparing the way for joint occupation of Germany.

Great Difficulty
One great difficulty, however, has been in getting a clear formulation of the American position on important issues. It was only after prolonged soul searching and much discussion within the cabinet that Churchill, in his pre-Christmas speech dealing with Poland, confessed his inability to discover how the U. S. stood on this vital problem.

Now, presumably, the answers will be forthcoming at the big three meeting. The President, backed by the staff he will take with him, is surely prepared to lay down the American line on vexatious issues so that Stalin and Churchill will unequivocally know his mind.

But plainly such irregular meetings between the three principals are not enough. To begin with, they are too difficult to arrange. The time and place are matters requiring the exchange of an infinite number of telegrams. Getting three figures of such stature to a conference, insuring their security while they are there, and getting them home again is no small task in itself.

Would Be Simple
Quarterly or even more frequent meetings of the secretaries of state would be comparatively simple to arrange. Such meetings would alternate, presumably, between London, Washington and Moscow. The world would not wait with the same breathless expectancy, knowing that by making day to day decisions the council of secretaries would solve many problems before they reached the critical headline stage.

Such a setup would mean, of course, that the President would have to delegate more authority to Secretary of State Stettinius than he has delegated to anyone in the past. It would mean that the Russian delegate would be relieved of the necessity of constantly cabling back to Moscow for instructions on all points.

Maybe, instead that way, it sounds like an impossible dream. But surely it is worth trying. If the conference soon to be held produces nothing more than long-time consultative machinery, it will have been worthwhile.

ATTAINING SMARTNESS
From the time I was a baby orphan, I was reared by a strict grandaunt on a farm seven miles from the nearest village, where I attended the grade and high schools.

My aunt taught me the necessary social graces, but I have never had an opportunity to use them until now when she has died and left me a comfortable income. I have moved into the city to live with my cousins but they leave me out of their parties and I overheard them criticizing my plainness of dress and lack of make-up. How can I improve my appearance without asking their advice and without appearing fast?

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

CULTIVATING APPETITES IN CHILDREN

Let me suggest a few principles and measures for cultivating a good appetite in your tot of two or three.

1. Try to be hopeful, calm yourself and get the youngster to be so just before he is to eat. A drink of fruit juice by him and slow walk with you for a block or so might cultivate his appetite.

2. Let him feed himself, of course. He will not push food into his mouth against his will nor faster than he can comfortably masticate and swallow it.

3. Don't tell or urge the child to eat. Just place the food he should have before him, a very small portion of it, one food at a time. Even though he has been eating heartily, his appetite may wane if much of any food or much or little of several foods are placed before him at once. Either may encourage his dawdling or his mixing or stirring of the foods, in which event you would be tempted to rebuke him or nag him to eat. Better not place water or milk beside another food. If he wants much milk and little other foods, present the milk last or late in the meal. If milk is liked the least, serve it first. Present each food in the order of its relative importance to his needs.

4. Aim at a clean plate and empty glass or cup. The less on the plate or in the cup the easier, of course, it is to attain this goal.

5. Present the most essential food first, in small portion. Unless you are sure he will like it make the portion so small as barely to be visible, actually so.

6. Don't tell him he must eat it. Just calmly let him know he can have no other food at this meal if he doesn't. In case he clearly indicates he is not going to eat it, show no concern at all. Have not the least strings in your inside, nor post. Let him get down and end the meal there, making sure he can get no other food till the next mealtime. Keep no account of his cries or objections.

7. In case he eats all the very first portion of the first food offered, don't give him more of it, however much he begs, until after he has run the gamut of eating the small portion of each food offered. Always let him choose, but between what is offered or nothing. All these matters I discuss at length in my bulletin, "Eating Problems: Their Prevention and Correction," to be had in a stamped envelope addressed to me at 235 East 45th street, New York City.

If, after following such procedure faithfully for two weeks, you see no gains, or are sure he will starve, (he won't) consult your doctor. Not many mothers will have the courage to stick to it for three successive meals!

The World and the Mud Puddles

TRY BONSET TEA

For several years hopeful Americans have submitted to the puncturing of their hides for the injection of what the medical profession in general advanced as a "scientific development" in preventing or curing the common curse known as the "common cold." Most of them submitted to this perforation half a dozen times every winter—and paid a fair sum of money for the privilege. Now the Journal of American Medical Association gives to the world a report of the organization's councils on pharmacy, chemistry and industrial health which proclaims that the so-called "cold vaccine" was only a delusion and a waste.

Briefly, says the report: "Decisive evidence of the value of any vaccine is not forthcoming, and the weight of careful studies clearly indicates that none of the vaccines now available when administered by the routes advised (injection, spray or capsule) have provided value."

Thus our old enemy, the "common cold" triumphs once more over medical science, and we are back to the old remedies of hot toddies, lemon foot baths, sweating, pink pills and citrus diets. No longer can we ward off the advice of well-meaning friends by the superior statement that we have had our "shots." We are recommended to the same old policy to sneeze and bear it.

Nothing has been more remarkable and inspiring than the great advances listed during the last century by medical and surgical science. We have practically whipped many of our dreadful maladies; we rebuild our interior and exterior of anatomy; we graft on new physiognomies and refurbish glands. But we have not gone any farther when it comes to handling the "common cold" than we do with doctors of the South Sea Islands.

With "shots" discredited, it looks as if we might as well save time, suffering and money by falling back on grandma's goose grease or peppermint and lard, or bonset tea.

Man takes from friends and strangers near.

A thousand favors through the year Which, by the morrow, he'll forget. Thinking a "Thank you" squared the debt.

Stung by a real or fancied slight, He'll toss upon his bed at night. Or lie in wait for years to find Some way to pay it back in kind.

How strange it is that men contrive To keep the little wrongs alive. And let, as time goes winging by, The little acts of kindness die.

(Copyright, 1945, Edgar A. Guest)

Hints On Etiquette

Don't stop speaking to people whom you don't happen to like or with whom you have had a disagreement. It is impolite and makes you appear ill-tempered. The least you can do is to say, "good morning" when you meet.

Hitler says the Germans will never quit fighting. Betcha Dollar Dyer says he'll give Dr. Furious plenty of odds on that one.

Navy Surgeon General's Wife Helps Blind
Washington Recalls Recent Inaugural Binge
Anti-New Dealers Resented Chicken Salad

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the United States Navy and also special physician to the president of the United States, has a Polly McIntire in popular wherever she goes. Particularly so at the hospitals where she has been working with convalescent war veterans who do not know her name and important place in the capital.

Mrs. McIntire is an expert on Braille and has helped teach many men with eye wounds to read with their fingers.

To one of these last war victims she said the other day: "I'm sorry I can't come here but once a week. I have a lot to do somewhere else."

The soldier, disappointed at the prospect of losing Mrs. McIntire, demanded to know what work could be more important than helping him and his kind.

"Well, if you insist," said the enthusiastic Polly, "I am housekeeper for Admiral McIntire. I cook for him. I sweep, dust and mend his socks and buy his food."

"Humph!" said the soldier thoughtfully. "Is that so? Well, if you do all that work, why don't you divorce your husband and marry the old goat?"

(Note—Admiral McIntire is a handsome fellow and one of the youngest admirals in the Navy. Hardly more than a kid. He is telling the story on himself with much pleasure.)

Spies In Washington
The Army Intelligence is naturally emphatic in urging everybody to say anything that could possibly give information to the enemy. That there are spies in Washington is accepted as a fact. A contingent of WACS training in the capital for Military Intelligence was warned so many times to be cautious in their conversation that when one of the WACS was given two dogs, the C. P.'s charged, the hounds: "Hush" and "Shush."

An informal estimate of the parties incidental and coincidental to the inauguration indicated that, 9,908,764 persons went to some sort of Washington inauguration celebration. The five-tenths or half a person refers to the man who was sliced in two, trying to get inside a revolving door.

There are those critics who might say there are not 9,908,764 residents of the capital. Therefore this number is exaggerated. To explain, many capitalists and visitor guests of capitalists went to five and six parties a day on Friday, Saturday and Sunday respectively.

Little Food, Lots To Drink
What was eaten and drunk at these parties by the hungry, thirsty millions. Ah! there's another matter. The White House food was quite properly meager. But some of the others, particularly the big Saturday eve feast of Democratic National Committee Chairman Robert Hannegan, served such lush buffets and such sparkling champagne and still, evil whisky that the Republicans are pointing with pride to these menus.

"Ha!" they say. "This serves the country right for electing a Democrat again. I mean a New Dealer. Where does all the money come from? And what about the black market?"

At the White House luncheon, however, I heard several anti-New Dealers say while glaring at the spoonful of chicken salad:

"If it were not for the fact that the Republicans in you would have something fit to eat at an inaugural luncheon."

Mr. Lincoln must have been right. You can't please all the people hardly any of the time.

The White House is settling down after its week-end commotion. The and, dropped from inaugural visitors' feet has been swept out. And the last damp bit of paper napkins has been picked up. Among the linen napkins, there is only one missing. I heard a luncheon guest say he grabbed the napkin from a messy plate.

"This here goes straight in my pocket. It's my first souvenir of Washington. The White House won't see this no more."

Sgt. M. J. Villani Missing In Action

South-Side Radioman And Gunner
With Eighth Air Force Missing Over Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Villani, of 543 East Long avenue, have been advised by the War Department that their son, Sergeant Marshall J. Villani, of the air force, was missing in action over Germany since January 10. He is a radio operator and gunner on a B-17 bomber, attached to the Eighth Air Force stationed in England.

Sgt. Villani has been in the service since June 1943, and overseas about three months. He is 19 years of age.

He attended New Castle High school, and was employed on the Pennsylvania railroad.

Charges He Struck Her With Steak

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(INS)—Attendants in week-end court were still talking today about the case of Daniel Tierney, who is under $500 bail awaiting trial on his wife's assault charge.

She accused him of smacking her across the face with a steak—but a real one.

Mrs. Tierney and her seven children subsequently ate the steak, she assured the astounded judge.

WMC PLACES NEW CASTLE IN GROUP TWO

By CAPT. ARTHUR WIMER

(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—The labor supply situation in the New Castle area showed no marked change last month, the war manpower commission reports.

In a revised labor market area classification as of February 1 the commission placed New Castle in group two defined as "areas in which labor shortages exist that may endanger essential production or areas that are approaching a balanced demand-supply situation." The commission had likewise placed New Castle in the group two category as of January 1.

In group two also were Erie, Chambersburg, Lancaster, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, and the Reading-Pottstown area.

The Philadelphia section was classified in group one defined as "areas in which acute labor shortages exist or are anticipated that will endanger essential production."

Trial Of Man For 40-year-Old Crime Opens At Fairmont

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 5.—(INS)—Benjamin Franklin Male, 73, who voluntarily returned to West Virginia from Oregon to face a 40-year-old murder charge, today went on trial for his life.

Male, who worked his way to St. Helen, Ore., in about a year from the time of the alleged murder of W. O. Smith, crippled school teacher, of nearby Hout, and who lived there as a respected citizen, came back to Fairmont after his wife, mentally ill, had told the story of the crime to Oregon authorities. They communicated with Harrison Conway, Marion county prosecutor, and Conway sent Male money for his railroad ticket.

Conway said he would ask for a verdict of first degree murder, which carries either the death penalty or life imprisonment. The jury, which must be composed of men in West Virginia, decides the punishment.

Despite the long period since the crime, Conway said that the state would have two eye-witnesses to the murder, and probably six additional witnesses to put on the stand.

Defense attorneys L. R. Johnson and J. Worley Powell, appointed by the court, have not indicated how many witnesses they will call.

Organize Choir At Harmony Baptist

At a very recent meeting of the volunteer choir of Harmony Baptist church on the Ellwood-New Castle road, officers were elected and plans laid for the future.

Mrs. Clyde Moore is to head the choir as president with Mrs. Eugene Tillia as secretary. Miss Juanita Daugherty was elected assistant secretary while Miss Evelyn Cobb will act as treasurer. A music committee will be announced later.

The choir selected for their director Charles Harris of New Castle and recommended his appointment to the church, who officially appointed him as director.

The choir has begun work on an Easter cantata entitled "Christ Victorious," to be presented during the Easter season.

Fear 'Brownouts' To Increase Crime

Darkened Streets And Shop Windows Are Temptation For Petty Crimes

By SUZANNE FLICK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 5.—(INS)—An emergency "brownout" of short duration was hoped for today by state officials who said an increase in petty crimes may result from the temptation of darkened streets and unlighted show windows.

Fred W. Brady, director of the bureau of correction for the state welfare department, pointed out that the majority of thefts were committed at night due to the psychological desires of criminals for darkness to hinder detection. He emphasized that most sex crimes occurred at night.

"Darkness would probably add to the temptation to commit crimes and may result in a rise in burglaries by youths," he declared. "Merchants in certain areas questioned the advisability of having the brownout for this reason and have contemplated requesting local officials to lower curfews until the fuel crisis is past."

A spokesman for the welfare department claimed curfews "chased" juveniles off the streets but not necessarily to their homes. He suggested the establishment of municipal detention rooms for youngsters picked up on the streets after hours.

"Minors cannot be kept in a jail," he stated. "There ought to be places for detaining them until they are claimed by their parents."

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the state council of defense said the agency would be ready to help police cities, if called upon.

"The brownout is under the jurisdiction of the War Production Board," an official stated, "and no request has been issued by any federal authorities for our assistance." The council's auxiliary police units probably would be used to supplement municipal force if local officials called for aid during the brownout.

Bronze Star Medal Given Lt. D. S. Long

(Special To The News)

WITH THE XV CORPS of the Seventh Army in France—Major Gen. Wade H. Haislip, commanding general of the XV corps, has presented the bronze star medal to First Lt. David S. Long of New Castle, Pa., for heroic achievements in recent action against the Germans.

Lt. Long is serving with a field artillery battalion as a forward observer. In a letter informing him of the award, General Haislip wrote: "During the closing of the Falaise Gap, the crossing of the Seine river, and at the entrance of the Forest de Parroy, you distinguished yourself in the performance of your duties by your outstanding display of zealousness, courage and aggressiveness. You invariably showed disregard for your own personal safety in pushing forward to carry out your mission. You have displayed an unusual degree of skill and ingenuity in the difficult task of finding suitable enemy targets."

This combination of courage and ability has aided your battalion in carrying out its primary mission. Your diligent efforts and faithful devotion to duty reflect credit upon yourself and merit great praise."

Lt. Long's mother, Mrs. D. H. Long, lives on E. Falls street, New Castle, Pa. He was graduated from Princeton university with the class of 1938.

One unit of the Ninth Air Force, in 323 sorties fired 1,117 Army Ordnance rockets, which destroyed 35 locomotives, 85 tanks, 15 armored cars, 164 motor transports, 19 gun positions, 9 hangars, 6 warehouses, 36 cars, 2 ships and in addition seriously damaged 105 other targets.

More Employees Needed In State

HARRISBURG, Feb. 5.—(INS)—The State War Manpower commission's February manpower report sharply underlined the urgent need today for 18,040 workers in Pennsylvania's "super-critical" industries producing component parts for tanks, rockets, airplanes, trucks, tires, artillery and ships.

Director Florian J. Boland said the number of workers needed immediately to assure maximum production was 428 above the commission's report two weeks ago and he predicted the demand for more employees would increase as industries boosted outputs to meet the needs of the armed services.

Taylor Heads R.F.C. At Present

Assumes Active Leadership When Vacancy Is Caused By Jones' Ouster

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A former protégé of Henry Wallace who was court-martialed because of a shoe deal during the First World War today heads the department of commerce and the sprawling ministry of the multi-billion dollar reconstruction corporation.

He is Wayne Chaffield Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, who assumed the acting secretaryship and the active direction of the Federal Loan Administration when Jesse Jones decided to step into the background of official life after President Roosevelt had appointed Henry Wallace to be his successor.

Taylor first achieved prominence in government life in 1933 and 1934; when, as an executive of the agricultural adjustment administration, he was a top assistant to the then-secretary of agriculture Wallace. Taylor left that post, however, to become vice president of the export-import bank when that government lending agency was under direction of Jones.

Taylor is not his legal last name. His complete "handle" is Wayne Chaffield-Taylor. Note the hyphen.

Removed Hyphen
Taylor himself said he removed that hyphen early in life because he was always in a position where he had to sign a lot of letters and meet a lot of people "and it was just too damn much trouble."

Taylor comes from Chicago, where his family is prominent in social and civic affairs, and where they still retain the hyphen.

Wayne C.-T. has an unusual claim to fame. He believes he is one of the few men convicted by a general court martial during the First World War to rise to prominence in the federal administration.

Taylor reports that in 1918 he was captain of a machine gun company in the Marine sector of fighting in France, and came to the conclusion that the men under him should be re-outfitted with new shoes. Although he was not the officer to do the job, he tried of his superior's vacillation and went out and got the shoes, not only for his own company but for the entire battalion.

Subsequently, he faced a court martial because of some words he said to his superior officer on the general subject of responsibility for troops under his command. Taylor insisted on pleading guilty, was convicted and fined $100 a month for six months.

But in a little while, they re-mitted the fine," he recalled. And now, at 51 years of age, he can smilingly attribute that incident of his youth to "a slight excess of zeal."

Behind Taylor's good humored frankness lies years of experience in banking and business affairs, both private and public. He entered the Central Trust Co. of Chicago in 1916, immediately upon graduating from Yale University, and for eleven years was an assistant and vice president of the Chicago investment banking house of Glorv Ward G. Co. He was a pioneer in the Commercial Air Transport business and was actively connected with a farm equipment manufacturing concern.

YOUTH INJURED
Charles Andrews, aged 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Andrews of 123 East Garfield avenue, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 5:30 p. m. Saturday for a laceration of the leg, sustained at play.

YOUTH SMASHES TOE
Charles Vigna, aged 17 years, of R. D. 2, Scotland Lane, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 12:15 p. m. Sunday for a smashed toe.

Unlike steel rivets, aluminum rivets are driven in while they are very cold.

Some Hostages Held By Japs

U. S. Forces Rescue Over 3,700 From Internment Camp At Manila

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION TROOPS AT MANILA, Feb. 4.—(6 p. m.)—(Delayed)—Some 24 hours after Brig. Gen. William Chase's first cavalry forces slashed their way into Manila, they today had rescued 3,700 civilian internees, mostly American women and children, from the Sanjo Tomas internment camp.

But another 300 or so still remained in Japanese hands as hostages. As this correspondent writes this dispatch, there is shooting in front of the Santo Tomas university and there is an interchange both of words and written messages between Chase and the Japanese commander in the area—words exchanged at respectful distances in loud calls.

The commander of the Japanese forces which opposed the cavalrymen in the building-to-building defense of the university made the following offer to Chase:

Some Hostages
"I will turn over hostages safely to you provided you give me and my soldiers safe conduct with our arms to Manila's city limits."

The enemy commander evidently did not realize that Lieut. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, U. S. eighth army forces coming up from Nichols field had him in a pincer, but this correspondent learned a few minutes ago that Chase was planning to negotiate the transfer of hostages and escort for the Japanese commander—who apparently is extremely reasonable for a Nip Samurai code believer—to the Sanjo Tomas presently-embattled city.

Despite the fact that they are being held as hostages, troops partially hidden in the courtyards below are calling cheerfully to the men, women and children in the second-story rooms—calling words of encouragement and filling them with the latest news, especially of developments in the Pacific fighting. At the same time, the Yanks are answering many personal questions put to them by the still-imprisoned civilians.

It is a strangely paradoxical sight to see the imprisoned civilians talking to free soldiers while Chase and the Jap commander decide the fate of those people who have known no freedom since Christmas of 1941.

Farm Draft Move Stirs Opposition

Selective Service Director Hershey Called Before Congress Committee For Questioning

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A full-fledged "revolt" against agricultural draft policies appeared brewing in congress today as Selective Service Director Hershey was summoned before a house committee for questioning by angry members of the powerful farm bloc.

Hershey was asked to appear by the house agriculture committee, headed by Rep. E. H. Clegg (D. Va.), after the farm bloc accused him of violating his promise not to compel draft boards to induct essential farmers and agricultural laborers 18 to 26 years of age.

As congressmen reportedly received upwards of 1,000 telegrams and letters of complaints daily, these developments followed:

Developments
1. A move was launched in the senate to write into the "work or fight" bill a provision automatically deferring all farmers and agricultural workers.

2. Rep. Lemke (R. N. D., chairman of the house farm bloc, which claims the support of some 250 congressmen from agricultural areas, prepared to introduce a resolution for a house investigating of the farm manpower situation.

3. A meeting of the house farm bloc was tentatively called for tomorrow.

Lemke said he planned to introduce the resolution, on which swift action was anticipated, if "no satisfaction is received from General Hershey." It calls for a probe of farm draft policies by the house agriculture committee.

The complaints of farm bloc members stemmed from what they charged was illegal disregard by selective service of the Tydings amendment, which provides for the deferment of essential farmers.

Homing pigeons have proved to be the most dependable means of communication at the war front. Birds are rarely shot down. In one war zone a flight of 92 miles was made in one hour and 52 minutes. The war has greatly increased the training and raising of homing pigeons all over the United States; a special technique has been developed in shipping them, according to railway Express. More than 23,000 birds are sometimes released for flights of hundreds of miles.

Hail Entry Into Manila As Real Warning To Japs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(INS)—Entry of American troops into the Philippines capital of Manila was hailed today by President Roosevelt and congressional leaders as a warning to Japan and Germany that they face certain defeat.

Topping the comment were Mr. Roosevelt's remarks contained in a message sent to President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines and made public by the White House.

"Let the Japanese and other enemies of peaceful nations take warning from these great events in your country: their world of treachery, aggression and enslavement cannot survive in the struggle against the world of freedom and peace," the message said.

Expressing joyfulness over the event, Mr. Roosevelt continued: "After long years of planning, our hearts have quickened at the magnificent strides toward freedom that have been made in the last months—at Leyte, Mindoro, Lingayen gulf and now Manila.

"We are proud of the mighty blows struck by Gen. MacArthur, our sailors, soldiers and airmen; and in their comradeship in arms with your loyal and valiant people who in the darkest days have not ceased to fight for their independence. You may be sure that this pride will strengthen our determination to drive the Jap invader from your islands.

"We will join you in that effort—with our armed forces as rapidly and as fully as our efforts against our enemies and our responsibilities to our liberated peoples permit. With God's help we will complete the fulfillment of the pledge we renewed when our men returned to Leyte."

In the small, quaint town of Terminales, Holland, several thousand miles away from his native Ballagarry, there is a plaque to the memory of a gallant ordnance soldier, Cpl. M. W. Bowling, who befriended the townspeople and who died recently as the result of an enemy artillery barrage.

Three hundred Mexican trainees, now undergoing flight instruction at Randolph Field, comprised the first group of its kind.

Cuba has been called successively Juana, Sancha, and finally regaining its Indian name of Cuba.

Yanks Rushing Work On Mighty New Pacific Base

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ADMIRAL NIMITZ ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Feb. 5.—(Via Navy Radio)—This unidentified tropical island far out in the Pacific is being moulded rapidly today into a mighty new "Pearl Harbor" aimed like a dagger at Tokyo, heart of the Japanese empire.

War correspondents are unable to give the location of the island for the time being except that every one refers to it as Cimron, meaning "commander-in-chief, Pacific ocean area, advance headquarters, forward area."

Great Progress

No one who visited the island even a few short weeks ago would be able to recognize it today. And tomorrow and the next day greater and greater changes are expected as army and navy engineers rush construction of vital installations.

The Japs who lost the island since the American Central Pacific offensive began, would be amazed to witness the progress of road and building construction in spots where the enemy only scratched the surface in his long occupation.

Undoubtedly in coming months this advance headquarters will be one of the mightiest bastions in the world as Tokyo feels the mounting fury of the United States offensive.

Where only trails existed previously, Navy Seabees are laying long, winding ribbons of black-topped three and four lane highways over which military equipment and personnel roar 24 hours a day.

Mammoth Base

The establishment of such a mammoth base became inevitable as a result of the American advance across the Pacific in the direction of the Chinese and Japanese mainland. The base should play an important role in the eventual crushing knockout blows against the Japanese military machine.

Fighting officers and men are willing to concede that the real heroes of the Pacific war are the construction workers and stevedores who provide the bases and insure a steady flow of supplies across the vast Pacific to scattered fighting fronts.

In addition, much credit for this giant base must go to the Seabees who have been working night and day to meet the almost impossible schedules for housing, storage facilities and other installations.

This story is being written in a modern, two-story frame building overlooking the Pacific. Outside can be heard the roar of bulldozers leveling the smooth coral road leading to other buildings in the base.

Even though much work remains to be done, signs are already appearing marked:

"Only (censored) miles to Tokyo."

McKees Rocks Flier Shoots Down Five

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—(INS)—With five Nazi planes to his credit, 19-year-old First Lt. Dale E. Karger of McKees Rocks today was believed to be the youngest air ace in the European theater.

A jet-propelled craft was among the "kills" chalked up by the youthful pilot, who has named his P-51 Mustang "Cathy Mae" in honor of Catherine Mae Clark of Youngstown, O.

Karger, a member of the 35th fighter group, stationed in England with the Eighth Air Force, has been nicknamed "Bobby Socks" by his buddies. The group recently celebrated its two hundredth combat mission by recording its 400th German airplane destroyed in eight months of fighting.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karger, Dale has been in the army nearly two years. He will be 20 on February 14.

Army Chaplain Tells Of Cruelty In Prison Camp

Reveals Experiences Of Three Years In Jap Prison Camp On Luzon

(Editor's note: Capt. John Dugan, veteran Army chaplain from Milton, Mass., the author of this article, has won a unique place in the hearts of American soldiers rescued from the Jap prison camp near Cabanatuan for his courage and resourcefulness under fire.

Forty-seven years old, Father Dugan is one of the three Catholic chaplains who stayed with their men through most of the hardships after the fall of Bataan and Corregidor, INS).

By CAPT. JOHN DUGAN
As Told To Lee Van Atta
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

A REST CAMP ON LUZON, Feb. 4.—(Delayed)—I can tell the whole story of my comrades during those past three terrible years in a few simple words.

These words are these — they proved themselves real Americans: Americans with honesty, courage, goodness and fine common sense; Americans who never faltered and who may have feared, but were too proud to admit it.

Many of them found their God in death; others found their God with me in the simple service we were allowed to hold in our rude little prison chapel.

Lived Cruel Existence
Yes, we lived a barbaric, cruel and often bestial existence. But we lived a life which bound each one to the other and we shared the pain and suffering of imprisonment under our ruthless Japanese captors with the same community feeling with which we are now sharing our freedom under the Army officers and men who are almost too kind to be real. I was one of those few fortunate men who missed the death march—I was ill, too ill to walk, and even the Japanese apparently feared to infringe greatly on the church.

But everywhere around me I saw what they did to our men. First, they confiscated everything we had—our few precious remaining valuables and keepsakes, what little food we had saved aside, and yes, even our medicines.

Tried To Starve Us
They did everything they could to starve us, but they forgot one thing—the American spirit. Deliberately, in the first days, they did all they could to confuse us. There were frequent moves, disquieting reports which they circulated of what our leaders were doing, propaganda about how America was about to surrender.

It achieved them no good except to create an even deeper distrust and dislike of the enemy.

Our death toll at first was staggering. In the early days at Camp Cabanatuan, second only to the terrible scenes at Camp O'Donnell for savage administration, our soldiers were dying at the rate of 50 a day.

First Red Cross Aid
Then, in late November of 1942, we were given our first Red Cross parcels—parcels with food, medicine, cigarettes and even some reading matter which the enemy troops let pass. That medicine meant the difference between life and death for many scores of men.

All the officers, chaplains and doctors had to do manual labor in the fields every day, working from dawn to dusk. Our jobs ranged from cleaning latrines to farming and wood chopping. And those who failed to meet the schedule the Japanese had set were beaten and sometimes executed.

I've seen more than one American beaten to death because he lacked both the strength and the will to keep up the back-breaking physical labor our captors demanded.

I could tell of tens and tens of thousands of terrible things we saw and heard, of little events which we magnified so much at the time. But fortunately, while the hardships of those years will always remain somewhere deep within us, it's the brighter things we like to remember. For example, the wonderful kindness of all the Filipinos who willingly sacrificed their lives and freedom to bring us gifts of food or medicine.

How do I feel about this new freedom? It's like walking in a new and wonderful world!

Ancient Greek philosophers believed that there was only one chemical element, but disagreed as to what it was.

Buildings Closed Last Week By Coal Shortage And Bad Roads Have Resumed Today

In spite of treacherous road conditions this morning, all schools in the county which were down last week because of the coal shortage, were able to resume sessions today, County Superintendent John C. Syling announced.

Only a few of the county schools were forced to suspend, most of them having a plentiful supply of coal on hand, but those which were down, resumed today, with a good attendance.

Report that a school bus had gone off the highway in Mahoning township, revealed that it was only an empty bus, which had skidded into a snow bank near the Tent Hall school, and that there was no damage.

Rescued Yanks Are Improving

Men Who spent Three Years
In Jap Prison Camp Are Responding To Treatment

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

AT A REST AND REHABILITATION HOSPITAL, Luzon, Feb. 4.—(Delayed)—It's all different now. It's all over—that's why it's so different.

Worn bodies are beginning to be smiling again. Encouraged by very special army routine, which asks nothing more than to "take it easy," minds strained thin by weeks, months, years of precarious living and subhuman treatment are relaxing with the bodies they guide—plenty of "back time" between clean sheets with only an evening movie or afternoon swim to worry about.

This schedule has lifted overburdening weights of mental agony which all these men knew so long, these men rescued by a Ranger raid which cleared the Cabanatuan concentration camp of 511 American and other allied veterans of the first months of the Pacific war.

All Over Now

You can see the differences best in their faces. A brief five days ago, these faces were tense, haggard and faint with concealed emotion. Now they are fuller, fatter and infinitely younger.

It is no longer anguish for them to look back on their three years of grim hardships. Rather, they seem to take a kind of fierce pride in recalling those years and then adding with a glow in their voices:

"But it's all over now."

There is something in late and they can stay abed all day if they desire. There have been special rations, such as "stateside" beer for them, chilled in the hospital icebox and available at the mere mention of the thirst for it. There are afternoon swimming parties in the waters of Lingayen Gulf and they can go ice-riding or even catch a ride if they feel so inclined.

There is a movie for them every evening. As hospital doctors say, "It's a very special brand of patients this time."

Urges Support Of Dumbarton Oaks World Proposals

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(INS)—In a move welcomed by the state department, the national board of the Young Men's Christian Association called on its 1,500 branches throughout the country today to promote study and support of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

Advised by Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. that his department "welcomes such constructive discussion programs," the national board announced that its local associations would be asked to set up discussion groups and forums among their two million members, and promote similar action on a community-wide basis.

The national board re-elected Ralph W. Harrison, Pittsburgh, chairman; Spencer Robertson, Madison, N. J., first vice-chairman; Lewis Larson, Sioux Falls, S. D., second vice-chairman; G. T. Selby, Mackinac, N. J., third vice-chairman, and John W. Pugh, Greenwich, Conn., recording secretary.

Most Dangerous Driving Of Winter Says Superintendent

"Most hazardous driving conditions of the winter" was the way Highway Superintendent Edwin O. Reed described the ice-coated roads this morning.

Following yesterday's thaw and freeze the highway crew was out most of the night ashing the main roads, but rural routes are still dangerously slippery.

AKRON, O., Feb. 5.—Three young people were burned to death and a man and wife were injured Sunday in a Southside Federal housing unit fire.

William Hipscher, 16; his sister, Gilda Lou, 17, and her girl friend, Patricia Jewell, 15, were found dead in the ashes of the house. Fred Hipscher, 47, and his wife, Alberta, 39, were reported in fair condition at City hospital.

The Ozark mountains are located in southwestern Missouri, northwestern Arkansas, and northeastern Oklahoma.

TRAIN WRECK NEAR LIMA, O.

Twelve Persons Are Injured In Collision Of Two Passenger
Trains In Ohio

LIMA, O., Feb. 5.—(INS)—Traffic over the Pennsylvania railroad west of Lima was restored today following the collision of two Pennsylvania passenger trains in which 12 persons were hospitalized.

Involved in the crash, according to railroad officials at Lima, were the Golden Arrow Limited and the Rainbow, two of the Pennsylvania's crack east-west passenger trains. Earlier reports from the scene of the accident, 17 miles west of Lima, indicated the Golden Arrow was rammed from behind by the Rainbow as the Golden Arrow slowed to allow a freight train to pull into a siding.

Most seriously injured were persons in the dining car of the Golden Arrow. The crash occurred about two miles from the nearest passable road, handicapping rescue crews who were forced to carry or help the victims through fields of slushy snow to waiting ambulances. Both trains were running far behind their regular schedules. The Golden Arrow reportedly was four hours late while the Rainbow was six hours behind its regular schedule when it passed through Lima a few minutes before the accident.

The victims included: Gerald Edgington of Reading, Pa., an Army officer whose rank was not learned, head and hip injuries. Lt. Seymour Legish, address unknown, head injuries.

Mrs. H. M. Dix of Orrville, O., abdominal injuries and shock.

Proper Diet Will Cut Time Between Blood Donations

ORONO, Me.—(INS)—Blood donors can regain their normal supply of blood more quickly if they eat the right foods, said Professor Marion D. Sweetman, chairman of the Maine state nutrition committee.

Eating a good all-around diet, with little extra emphasis on foods high in protein and iron, makes it possible to shorten the time between donations, he stated. And he added, this is especially helpful for women donors.

The committee issued a "Foods for Blood Donors" daily plan. It follows:

One or more servings of green and yellow vegetables and fruits: One or more servings of citrus fruits, tomatoes, or fruits or vegetables selected for high vitamin C value.

One or preferably more servings of miscellaneous fruits and vegetables:

At least two glasses of milk (or its equivalent):

At least one serving of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, dried peas, dried beans, peanuts, or soybean products:

One or more servings of whole grain and enriched bread or other flour products:

And one or more servings of butter or oleomargarine fortified with Vitamin A.

Liver and kidney rank above other foods in blood building value and might well be eaten once or twice a week.

Professor Sweetman said: "Hearts, eggs, oysters, and clams are also superior foods for this purpose, he added."

Pvt. Ostrowski Is Recovering From Battle Wounds

(Special To The News)

THE 141ST GENERAL HOSPITAL, England—Wounded by shrapnel from an enemy 88 mm. shell while holding a position near Aachen, Germany, Pvt. Albert T. Ostrowski, 24, of 76 Bluff street, New Castle, Pa., is recovering at this United States army general hospital in England. He has been awarded the Purple Heart.

Pvt. Ostrowski is on the road to recovery and soon may return to the United States for further treatment, said his war surgeon, First Lieut. H. K. Moulton of Petersburg, Ill.

Pvt. Ostrowski, a rifleman, with other soldiers in his infantry squad, was holding a position recently gained against a German counter-attack. He was wounded in both legs by pieces of shrapnel when an enemy shell crashed close to their position.

He entered the army in November, 1943.

Pvt. Ostrowski is the husband of Mrs. Tillie Ostrowski of New Castle, and the brother of Pfc. Frank Ostrowski 28 now in Germany with a field artillery unit. Sgt. Joseph Ostrowski 26 and Sgt. Walter Ostrowski 24, with a medical unit, are both in the United States.

Camp Reynolds Aiding In Work Of Transportation

CAMP REYNOLDS, Feb. 5.—(INS)—In order to help combat the transportation emergency in the east and midwest, soldiers have been drawn from practically every type of work at Camp Reynolds. Lieut. Col. George Blaney, camp commander, today disclosed:

Approximately 100 men were sent to Detroit to take over new army trucks and drive them to the east coast. Colonel Blaney said, while three others were going to Buffalo, N. Y., where they will work as railroad brakemen for two weeks.

Loss of these men, the colonel explained, will force soldiers remaining at the post to do double duty in order to maintain routine function.

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Feb. 5.—(INS)—Charges of larceny and burglary today had been filed against Melvin Robert Loveland and Nick Dermbach, captured Allegheny county jailbreakers, after they allegedly admitted robbing a garage in Monongahela last November.

(Special To The News)

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy—Sgt. Walter C. Falen, son of Robert M. Falen, Ellwood City, Pa., recently was awarded the silver star for gallantry in action.

He is serving on the fifth army front in Italy with the 39th infantry regiment of the 85th "Custer" division.

When his platoon was pinned down by enemy fire which wounded the bazooka team, Falen, a squad leader, and the platoon leader took up the rock-throwing and advanced to a position where they could fire upon the enemy mortars. Despite heavy hostile fire, they succeeded in killing two and wounding two Germans and putting the mortar out of action.

As the platoon was halted by an enemy minefield, Falen advanced under fire to clear a path, killing two enemy soldiers as they attacked him while he was working.

Walking 18 Miles To Work Through Snow To Ellwood Job, Brings W.P.B. Citation

(Special To The News)
ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 5.—Because he walked 18 miles over snow-covered roads to get to his war job the other day, Everett Cooper has been cited by Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board "for service beyond the call of normal duty."
When deep snowdrifts blocked his way between his home at Slippery Rock, Pa., and the Ellwood City plant of United States Steel's National Tube Company, where he is a painter, Cooper covered the distance on foot, leaving his home the night before to make sure that he would be at work on time.
His fellow employees were so impressed that they felt the war production officials in Washington should know about the feat, and when Krug heard about it he sent Cooper this commendation:
"I have just been advised that, during a recent and heavy snow storm in your locality, you walked eighteen miles from your home in Slippery Rock to your job in Ellwood City. Further, you left your home at five o'clock in the evening arriving in Ellwood City about ten-thirty the same evening, spending the remainder of the night in Ellwood City in order to be on your job at seven o'clock the next morning."
"I am further advised that you are never late for work and that you never lose any time. Also, I am informed, you were rejected by the Army because of poor legs."
"In the face of today's increasing needs for more and more war production and in the face of a regrettable degree of absenteeism in war industries, it is only just to tell you how deeply I feel about your splendid display of devotion to your duty."

Much Of Eastern Part Of Nation Has Icy Driving

(International News Service)
A freak storm of sleet and freezing rain left a glaze of treacherous icy pavements and sidewalks today over much of the distance between Nebraska and Iowa on the west and New York state on the east.

In Nebraska, where the storm originated, power and telephone lines were snapped by the heavy weight of ice on the wires, and 41 towns were left temporarily without telephone service.

The Chicago Motor club warned motorists that highways were in dangerous condition from Iowa and Nebraska to Pennsylvania and from Madison and Milwaukee, Wis., to Indianapolis and into Missouri.

Driving Hazardous
Temperatures in Pennsylvania—below freezing during the night—began to rise slowly in the eastern sections, but the frigid weather continued to plague western parts, with hazardous—and in some places—impossible driving conditions.

Throughout the Keystone state roads glistened from a thin sheen of frozen rain, causing numerous motor and pedestrian accidents. The mercury hovered around 35 degrees in eastern Pennsylvania and was expected to rise to about 38 before dropping again tonight.

Continued freezing temperatures, however, were in store for the West. Some two feet of water blocked route 22 at Murraysville in the wake of a flooding rain, while travel in Butler county was virtually paralyzed. Ice, in some spots 14 inches thick, blocked the Monongahela river near Hout, W. Va., to Charleston.

Many flights were cancelled out of the Chicago municipal airport because of icing conditions. Trucking companies abandoned trips and bus service between Illinois cities was discontinued temporarily.

Scores of minor automobile accidents were caused by the slippery highways and hundreds of pedestrians fell on the icy sidewalks, many of them suffering broken bones.

Lauri Pakkanen, New Castle infantryman who was reported missing in action on November 18, is now in a German prison camp, according to a letter which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Onni A. Pakkanen, 820 East Lutton street, have received from him.

Overseas since last October, Pfc. Pakkanen was in several fierce engagements before his capture. He is now in fairly good condition, but the men in the camp are in need of packages from home, he states. The soldier has been in service for almost two years.

No official word has been received about his capture as yet.

Surplus War Goods Sales Are Being Probed

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(INS)—Sen. James Mead (D) N. Y., chairman of the war investigating committee, charged today that surplus war goods sold at auction at Maspeth, L. I., were repurchased by the government at figures greatly increased over their original costs.

The senator said that the auctioned goods "found their way back to the Brooklyn Navy Yard or government arsenals and the price (repurchase cost) carried four or five profits."

Mead declared the other government agencies and army and navy received no notification of what was sold. Thus it was revealed that one government agency was probably selling to traders what another agency was buying.

In this connection, Rep. Miller (R) Neb., disclosed he had asked Mead's committee for an opportunity to present evidence that some government agencies have sold goods as surplus while others called on manufacturers to speed delivery of similar articles. He cited the sale of surgical bandages.

Contradictory Reports
More than twenty-seven million bandages were put on sale at Louisville, Ky., he said, and one and one-half million more were sold at Pueblo, Colo., while manufacturers told him they could not keep up with government orders.

At the same time, Mead said the hearing on how an auction firm used "big names" in its effort to get government business is disclosing that "political influence is developing."

Herbert Bayard Swope, former newspaper editor and prominent Democrat wrote letters to surplus property officials, including former RFC chairman Jesse Jones, which at least got interviews for Jacob Goldberg, auctioneer repeatedly described as witnesses as "smart."

Herman Brandt, whose son married Swope's daughter, complained in his testimony that "Mr. Swope didn't do us any good." But the committee will resume tomorrow its probe of whether the Swope name and influence resulted in the final winning of a contract for their firm, "Surplus Liquidators, Inc."

"The fact remains that they got nowhere for a year, until Swope started writing letters all over the lot," a committee spokesman said.

Discloses Defects
Mead said he believed the incident in which a trader bought at the Maspeth auction for $31 a searchlight for which he already had an order—for $235—from a government contractor was typical of many others in the sale. Another revealed was purchase of five ship deck drains at $3.25 each and immediate resale to a government shipbuilder for $12 each.

The chairman of the war effort watch-dog committee said the hearing thus far has disclosed four defects of the auction methods of selling the surpluses that eventually will reach some 100 billion dollars:

1. Political influence is developing.
2. The average businessman cannot participate.
3. Public agencies cannot participate. They cannot comply with sale rules, such as submitting certified checks.
4. Raising of prices by "renegotiation" after the sale.

Wool Growers In Annual Meeting

R. P. Peebles Is Re-Elected
President For Coming Year At Meeting In
Liberty Grange Hall

Members of the Lawrence County Wool Growers Association had their annual meeting in Liberty Grange Hall Saturday with a good attendance, in spite of adverse traveling conditions.

At the morning session, reports were given by the officers, and the election of officers and directors resulted in R. P. Peebles of Plainsville being re-elected president for the coming year. Other officers and directors are: vice president, Earl Wilmer, Butler county; W. F. McCracken, Scott township, secretary and treasurer; with the following as directors: Guy Fullerton, North Beaver; J. L. Burton, Scott township; Scott Baker, Beaver county, and S. R. Neely, Plainsville township.

W. B. Connell, sheep and wool expert, told about wool marketing during the past year throughout the state and said that this year's crop would again be bought by the Commodity Credit Corporation for the use of the government. Despite the big stock pile of wool reported in the country, he stated that it is not believed that it will have any serious effect on marketing conditions, due to the tremendous world demand for wool.

L. E. Engle, Greene county agent, told of the results which have been obtained in his district in parasite control, and of the importance of pasture improvement in connection with sheep culture.

CHINESE TAXES GALORE
The moth-eaten gag about death and taxes—you know, you can't escape either—had a sad connotation in war-weary China. For the Chinese not only pay taxes galore, but have to pay taxes to die—that is, funeral taxes.

"China has imposed taxes," reports Mark Gayn in the forthcoming issue of Collier's "on funerals, on weddings and family raising, on prostitution, gambling and monasteries, on religious feasts and pig slaughter, on the remarriage of widows and the sale of dried mushrooms."

New Castle Schedules Beaver Falls Hi Game For Tuesday Afternoon

New Castle High Authorities
Comply With No Night
Activities Order

Complying with the orders of the Fuel Administrator, that all night activities in the various schools be abolished temporarily, owing to the coal shortage, the New Castle High school officials have re-scheduled the New Castle-Beaver Falls High basketball game in Section Three, for Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It was announced by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Principal Clarence Book, of Senior High this morning.

This will mark the first afternoon floor game for New Castle in years, and the first time a league game has been played other than in the evening, but orders are orders and the New Castle High authorities are willing to live up to them.

Same Conditions

The same conditions will exist for the before-supper battle, as would for the evening, the admission will be the same, and of course the 4 o'clock date means that the students can attend with no classes being missed. The prices will be—students 25 cents, general admission 35 cents, reserved seats 60 cents.

The Beaver Falls officials when advised as to the situation here, readily agreed to playing the afternoon tilt. Beaver Falls tied with Farrell for the league lead, will be out for a win here, having edged New Castle by a two-point margin at Beaver Falls recently 32 to 30.

The status of the scheduled All-quippa at New Castle game for Friday night, has not as yet been decided, it was announced depending on what the coal situation is like by the end of the week, but there is a strong possibility that the game Friday will also be played in the afternoon.

Slated for Cards

JIM MALLORY, spirited outfielder of the Columbus club of the American Association, is slated to get the St. Louis Cardinal outfield berth vacated by Stan Musial, who now is in the Navy. Mallory is a speedy gardener and has fine throwing arm. (International)

American League Arranges Games

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — (INS) — American league teams have arranged a spring exhibition program totaling 94 games, an increase of 16 contests over the 1944 schedule, league officials announced Saturday.

The 94 exhibitions now listed include 15 between American league teams, 34 with National league opponents, three with Army teams, 12 with clubs representing naval training stations, and 10 contests with minor league aggregations, with Baltimore, Jersey City, and Indianapolis furnishing the opposition.

Washington and New York finished on top the American league spring standings a year ago, the Nats winning seven of nine major league exhibitions and the Yanks taking nine out of twelve. The Cardinals and Cincinnati set the best National league record.

Browns Vs. Cubs

The championship St. Louis Browns will meet the Chicago Cubs in a three-game series at Cape Girardeau, Mo., Brownie training site. Another important series will be played between the Yankees and Brooklyn, winding up with three games at Ebbets' Field in Brooklyn. Pittsburgh will tangle, as will Detroit and Chicago, in the second series include games between the Yank and Athletics, Washington and the Boston Braves and Cincinnati and the Indians.

Following are the American league spring camp sites and approximate dates for reporting: Boston, Pleasantville, N. J., March 10; Chicago, Terre Haute, Ind., March 10; Cleveland, Lafayette, Ind., March 12; Detroit, Evansville, Ind., March 15; New York, Atlantic City, N. J., March 11; Philadelphia, Frederick, Md., March 12; St. Louis, Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 12; Washington, College Park, Md., March 7-14.

New Castle Hi Loses Another Exciting Battle

Farrell Ekes Out 40 To 39
Win In Overtime At Farrel Saturday

ANDREWS-STACK
CHASED ON FOULS

Continuing to play in "hard luck" in Section Three, a hard fighting New Castle High basketball team leading the biggest part of the game, saw a determined Farrell team come from behind and eke out of 40 to 39 win that required an overtime period to decide. The regulation game ended 38-38.

Farrell came here several weeks ago and won a thriller 20 to 20, but the one at Farrell Saturday night had over 2,000 fans on their feet screaming and yelling the entire fourth period and the overtime. With a minute and 39 seconds left of the regulation game New Castle led by three points at 33 to 35, but Cannone blasted in a field goal to make it 33 to 37 and Checks with only seconds left to play tied up the count at 38-38 as the game rounded.

Andrews-Stack Banished

In the overtime New Castle assumed the lead when Dick Whitaker coolly shot a foul, but again with a matter of seconds left to play LaCarniere made a field goal and the game was over.

New Castle lost the services of its star forward Bill Andrews in five periods at the start of the fourth period, and Farrell lost its Jimmy Smith, the colored star, both boys had played a great game, of hard defensive and offensive basketball, and each tallied 12 points to be the individual scoring stars of their respective teams.

The loss of Andrews and then Pete Stack midway in the fourth period on fire personal hurt New Castle quite an extent, but Farrell lost Smith and Cannone on fouls too. It would have been a different finish with these boys in the battle, it was evident.

New Castle Takes Lead

New Castle's revamped lineup with Wimer, Jackson, and Fisher missing of the team that faced Farrell here, shot into the lead in the first period 11 to 9, and at halftime had increased the margin to 23 to 17. Andrews with nine points was the standout for New Castle the first half. Smith with 11 points was the Farrell scoring star the first-half.

Farrell came back from the intermission with more determination and won the third period, 10 to 8, but still dragged 31 to 27, as the third stanza closed. In the fourth period Farrell again won it, 11 to 7, and came from behind as related in the above story. New Castle had the better of it the first half, with Farrell evening up the second-half.

A New Castle team played fine basketball and will improve. Pete Stack played a great game at center until banished, getting eight points and playing a fine defensive game, as did Al Koszela and Dick Whitaker, the latter getting seven points. Owoe played a great defensive game, and also broke into the scoring column. Walls and Fomka also looked good as reserves.

The win put Farrell in a tight and one tie with Beaver Falls, while it was New Castle's sixth loss in eight league starts.

New Castle, G. F. T. Farrell, G. F. T. Andrews, f 4 4 12 Smith, f 4 4 12 Koszela, f 2 2 6 Cannone, c 3 3 9 Stack, c 1 0 2 LaCarniere, c 1 0 2 Whitaker, g 2 3 7 Checks, g 1 1 3 Walls, f 1 2 4 Callahan, f 1 1 3 Basione, g 0 2 2

More than 1,200 sports writers, players and guests attended the chapter's 22nd annual dinner last night, and enjoyed the unbridled revelry which saw the club magnates and league officials kidded with a jest unsurpassed at previous banquets.

Special Awards

Highlight of the night was the presentation of special awards to Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and Dixie Walker, Dodger outfielder and National batting champion. McKechnie received the William J. Stoen Memorial Plaque for meritorious service to baseball over a long period of years, and Walker received the chapter's "player of the year" award.

Speakers struck a general theme that baseball should be allowed to continue despite the war.

Chief targets of the ribbing were league pressies Ford Frick and Will Harridge, Larry MacPhail, Joe McCarthy and Branch Rickey. One of the funniest was a skit showing Rickey snatching infant prodigies with a stick of candy.

Freshman George Schantz, Lion wrestler, does not lack for rooters in his own family, his mother, father, sister, uncle and cousin all are Penn State graduates.

Westminster team leaves Tuesday for Boston where Thursday night they will battle Hamline University, and Saturday will go to Buffalo to play the high-scoring Bowling Green team at the auditorium.

Titans Wallop Bethany 78-49

Despite Loss Of Cypher And Watkins Westminster
Shows Fine Offensive Play

NOBLE JORGENSEN LEADING SCORER

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 5. — Westminster College's Towering Titans, enjoyed a layoff of basketball for a week, then came back Saturday night, at the college gym here, and played a willing Bethany team off its feet, 78 to 49, showing a return to the form that has carried them to 10 wins in 12 starts this year.

Despite the absence of Joe Cypher and Jack Watkins two high-scoring Titans now awaiting induction into the armed forces, the Westminsterites kicked in 24 field goals and 10 fouls. Noble Jorgensen, the sterling center blasted in 27 points to be the high-scorer in the game, and run his district total to 202, just ahead of Bethany's Pandak.

Kashlak-Bair Look Great

In place of the clever Cypher and Watkins, Coach Grover Washbaugh started John Kashlak of Duquesne and Al Bair of Long Island and both boys fitted into the picture very nicely, getting 13 of the points.

Westminster led 16 to 4, the first period and at halftime had a lead of 38 to 16. The third period found the Titans again dumping in 22 points to make it 60 to 27 at the end of the session. Bethany opened up the final period to win it 23 to 18 with Pandak getting "hot" and dishing in 15 points for the game to make his district total 196, just six points below Jorgensen.

Play Hamline Thursday

The Westminster team leaves Tuesday for Boston where Thursday night they will battle Hamline University, and Saturday will go to Buffalo to play the high-scoring Bowling Green team at the auditorium.

Coch Wabashaugh will start the same team Thursday that faced the Beaver Blons, it was indicated.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

WITH but one exception, the seasons and regulations for the taking of game fish in Pennsylvania during 1945 will remain the same as in 1944. The one exception is the "Muskie," the legal size of which has been increased from 22 inches to 24 inches. The increase was made in order that this fish which provides so much sport in lakes and streams of the Keystone state will be further protected. The size, season and number of principal game fish are as follows:

Trout: Cherry, commonly called brook trout, or any species of trout except lake or salmon. April 15 to July 31, not less than six inches. Number one day, combined sizes 10.

Trout: Lake or salmon. July 1 to September 29, no size, eight in one day.

Bass: Small and large mouth. July 1 to November 30, not less than nine inches, one day, combined species, six.

Pike Perch: Otherwise called wall-eyed pike or Susquehanna salmon. July 1 to November 30, not less than 12 inches, six in one day.

Pickering: July 1 to November 30, not less than 12 inches, six in one day.

Muskellunge (Western or Northern Pike): July 1 to November 30, not less than 24 inches, two in one day.

Managers of all of the teams which held a franchise in the City Baseball League last summer are requested to call Ed Fritz, Sports Editor of The News, Jeff Heath of the Cleveland Indians, reports operation on one of his knees, proved a success. Lawrence County Sportsman's Association is scheduled to convene at 8 o'clock one week from tomorrow night. All athletic contests at night in the local public schools have been called off, according to School Board President Leslie Brindle.

Corp. Tony Petrucci is in the South Pacific. Ensign Charles Augustine is with the Merchant Marine with a home station at St. Petersburg. Frank Dewberry, former Sports Editor of The News and Charlie met there recently. Sp. 2c Al Wendell Morrison, Coast Guard, is stationed at Wilmington, N. C. Washington Senators have ordered their batteries to report to camp at College Park, Md., March 7.

Organized baseball is going to sign American Legion players this year. Which recalls to mind that many of the major stars began their careers on Legion nines. Joe Gordon, Hal Newhouse, Bobby Doerr, Bob Feller, Buddy Lewis and Mort Cooper are a few Legion grads.

Shirley Cobb, daughter of Tyrus Raymond, is working for the Red Cross in the Mediterranean theater. Casey Stengel, manager of Kansas City, was fired from the same club in 1910. Howie Kist, Cardinal pitcher, recently was awarded the Purple Heart. Lou Novikoff, Cus slugger, is working in a Los Angeles war plant.

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. — The five larcenous Brooklyn college basketball players who confessed to accepting a $1,000 bribe from two gentlemen acquaintances to fix a game may wind up with the swag after all. They are through with athletics for life, unless they operate under aliases elsewhere, and their education at Brooklyn college was ended abruptly Friday when they were expelled, but the trial of the alleged fixers may establish the players as the rightful owners of the money that got them into all their trouble.

Curious about what happens to the bribe money in a frustrated, almost unprecedented case of this kind, I finally wound up convinced that nobody pays the slightest heed to a loose grand kicking around. Nobody had given it a thought. It is any news to the two characters who will be tried on a charge of conspiracy to cheat and defraud, they won't get their dough back.

Money As Evidence

I asked Assistant District Attorney Edward Heffernan about that payoff bundle and at first he said in effect that he didn't know what to make of the question.

"We didn't recover all of the money," he said, "but what we did get will be used as evidence in the trial like a gun or a knife or anything else."

"I don't know what will be done with the money after the trial," he said finally. "Call on Capt. Richard Fennelly of the New York headquarters safe and loft squad."

Capt. Fennelly, who clicked the trap that broke the case said at first that damned if he knew for sure what would happen to the money.

Then he mused it over and said they would have to get a ruling from the legal department after the trial. Where the money will go probably will depend upon what disposition is made of the charges against the two men.

To Police Fund

"I would say that if they are convicted of the conspiracy charge the money automatically will go into the police fund, like any gambling money or other illegal money," he said.

It doesn't belong to anybody in that case, so the cops get it. However, there is at least a chance that the men will escape conviction, Capt. Fennelly pointed out.

"If so," he said, "the money will legally belong to the players' won't it? But I don't think they will come after it and we won't send it to them. Their failure to seek recovery within six months means the money still will go into the fund."

It looks as though the police fund will wind up with the money one way or another, but with no basketball games to play and no school to go to the boys might find time to drop by and pick it up.

IF ANYONE still has doubts about tires built with man-made rubber, here's clear-cut performance proof: by the most conservative estimate, essential drivers have already rolled over 3 billion miles on B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns.

Letters have come in from drivers all over the country reporting complete satisfaction. Most of them have expressed confidence that all-synthetic Silvertowns will give at least as much mileage as pre-war tires.

The 80,000,000-mile road test was the first proof that B. F. Goodrich could build high-performance tires with synthetic rubber. The test started almost two years before Pearl Harbor when B. F. Goodrich sold tires in

QUIET ADVANCE IN MARKET TODAY

Charges Effort To 'Buy' Votes For Wallace

By WILLIAM THEIS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.), charged today that "leftists" attempted to "buy" Senate votes for confirmation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce with control of 40 billions of dollars in lending agency funds.

Wiley declared that every medium of pressure was used by the Wallace backers, and praised the Senate for its standing firm and passing the George bill denying Wallace control of the RFC and other lending agencies.

"In so doing, the Senate served a blunt notice to the synthetic leftists thinkers who seek to foist the CIO-PAC party line on the American public and the American Congress," he said.

"The notice is this: No artificial avalanche of propaganda, no crack of the administration whip, no attempt to regiment the peoples' thinking, no blackmail threats to besmirch the name of Congress in the eyes of the people will buy the sacred votes of the United States Senate."

He characterized Senate passage of the George bill as a demonstration of its distaste for Wallace's kind of liberalism, which is liberal with other peoples' money.

SIEGFRIED LINE MAIN DEFENSES ARE HAMMERED

from the headquarters of Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery said the Yanks had widened their area of penetration but had not yet cracked entirely through the Siegfried line to the plains stretching to the Rhine.

That the First Army spearhead was closed to a breakthrough however said the Americans in one sector had "reached the final phase of the defensive depth" of the line. Columns of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army not only cleared the Germans from their last stronghold in Belgium but have plunged into Germany to reach points within more than eight miles east of the line they held when the Germans broke into the Ardennes salient in December.

Admitted By Berlin
Berlin was quick to admit that the First and Third armies had crushed through their defenses and one Nazi commentator warned that Allied forces were preparing to launch an offensive along practically the entire length of the western front.

A communique issued by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed that Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' columns moving northeast of Monschau had made fresh gains of more than 3,000 yards to reach Ruhrberg.

Striking out toward the southeast, another First Army column fought its way through bitter Nazi opposition for more than 3,500 yards to reach the south shore of Urf lake. Fanning out to the south and southwest of the lake, the Yanks cleared Ennruhr, seized Wollseifen and captured the strongpoints of Vogelsang, Roerberg and Morsbach. Once the enemy was cleared from Morsbach the Americans pushed beyond the town for another half mile.

Almost in the center of the rolling front the Yanks encountered terrific Nazi rifle and machine-gun fire from pillbox positions in the region of Hollerath.

Knock Out Pillboxes
After a savage encounter the Americans knocked out a number of key pillboxes to the west of Hollerath.

Two miles south of Udenbreth strong forces of German infantry were spotted forming for a counter-attack but were broken up by Yank artillery fire before they could get under way.

Third Army forces charged into the town of Roth, northwest of St. Vith and drove the Nazis out while other infantrymen ebbed into the Schnee Eifel where they were overlooking the vital communications hub of Prüm some five miles away.

There was neither confirmation nor denial at supreme Allied headquarters of front reports that the 9th Division had smashed through the second belt of Siegfried defenses to reach the town of Minck.

The supreme headquarters report said only that First Army units had made contact with outposts in the second belt of the west wall defenses in the vicinity of Schleiden. The Paris report reported however that the Americans had captured Schleiden.

30 Miles From Bonn
What ever their exact position in this region, it was evident the Yanks were only some 30 miles from the Rhine city of Bonn and were posing a mounting menace to the important highway center of Essen.

The headquarters communique revealed that the First Army had reached within 1,000 yards of one of the key dams controlling the Roer river.

Front reports disclosed that Gen. Patton's forces had fought their way almost a mile and one-half into the deep defenses of the Siegfried line and had gained another mile in the Nuech area some eight and one-half miles southeast of St. Vith.

Bitter fighting also developed four miles south-west of Haguenau where the Americans were pushing the Nazis out of Oberhoffen in costly house-to-house combat.

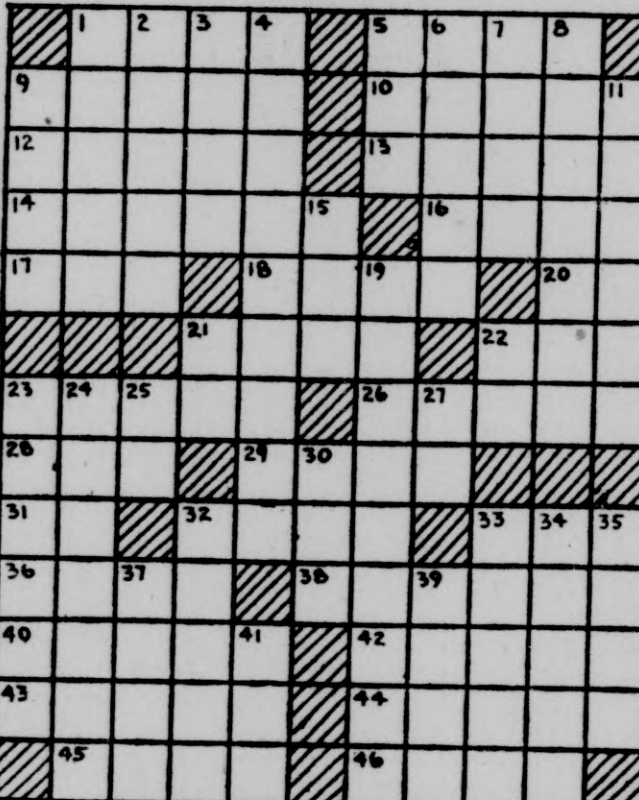

At the southern end of the western front the French First Army reported the capture of 2,200 prisoners as Allied columns moved south from Colmar and north from Mulhouse to squeeze Nazi troops caught west of the Rhine.

The French First Army communique said that the gap between the advancing forces was somewhat less than eight miles.

"The London radio, heard by CBS, said the French had closed all but six miles of the gap and that 2,500 prisoners had been taken."

Four Fire Alarms For Minor Causes

Four alarms were answered over the week-end by local firemen, none of the fires of any consequence, Fire Chief James E. Thomas reports.

At 2:50 a. m. today, firemen were summoned to the Johnson Bronze company plant, when the A. D. T. alarm was tripped off. No action was required.

At 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning, a soot burning in the chimney at the home of Miss Lillian Ecklon, of 1007 Winslow avenue, burned paper off a chimney hole covering. Damage of $5 was done.

At 5:50 o'clock Sunday morning, a leaking from a refrigerator in the home of Angelo Astell, of 503 Over street resulted in an alarm from Box 512. Firemen removed the refrigerator to the back porch.

At 3:01 p. m. Saturday, No. 5 department went to the plant of the Associated Box company, where a pile of sawdust and shavings in the yard of the plant caught fire. There was no loss.

AROUND CITY HALL

During Council meeting today, solons adopted a form prepared by City Solicitor Robert M. White in which real estate owners object to the new triennial assessments to be made this year can register complaint. The form when filled out and submitted to the city assessor, George Patterson, will contain the information on which the complaint is based. Finance Director Albert Hovland remarked that he would set a rule stating how assessments are to be made. It developed through a question put by an observer to Assessor Patterson that he makes assessments as to what a property would cost at a fair sale.

President McKinley had three brothers, David, James and Abner. They died many years ago.

Whittling Down Jap Shipping In Pacific Waters

Japanese Combat And Merchant Fleet Suffering Loss Of 50 Ships Per Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(INS)—American fleet and air units in the Pacific command are today whittling down the size of the Jap combat and merchant fleet at a rate of 50 vessels a week.

This rate has obtained for the past six months, the navy said, disclosing that in the period from June 19, 1944, to Feb. 2, 1945, 1,725 Jap combat and non-combat ships have been sunk, probably sunk or damaged as against only 1,383 enemy vessels accounted for in the entire period from Pearl Harbor to last June 19.

The navy figures did not include Jap ship sinkings by army airforces in the Pacific and Asiatic theaters, which would bring the total above the 5,000 mark.

Jap Navy Shrinks
At the same time, a navy spokesman, recapitulating the destruction of enemy combat ships in the second battle of the Philippines, declared that the Japanese navy "had been reduced to the size of a task force."

Subsequent damage sustained by the American fleet in the Philippines campaign, he added, "in no way impairs our ability to go anywhere we like. We have two times as many ships as we need to do our job."

The spokesman revealed that a careful scrutiny of the results of the historic naval battle, which raged from Oct. 23 to Oct. 27, gives as a final score three Jap heavy battleships sunk and seven damaged, one large and three light carriers sunk, six heavy cruisers sunk and seven probably damaged, three or four light cruisers sunk, six destroyers sunk and seven or eight probably damaged.

The spokesman explained the Japs have now had sufficient time to repair the damage to their ships and that most of those listed in that category are probably now back in action.

Keep Them Sinking
The navy said in its summary of Jap ship losses that 152 combatant ships were sunk by fleet and air units of the Pacific command from June 1944 to Feb. 1945, exactly the same number that were sunk in the two and a half years from Dec. 7, 1941, to June, 1944.

Total combat and non-combat ships sunk by air, surface and underwater craft were 871 from Dec. 1941 to June 1944 plus 911 from June 1944 to Feb. 1945, the summary revealed.

Probables totaled 83 for the early period, as against 104 in the past six months, while those listed as damaged included 429 in the two and a half years from Dec. 1941 to June 1944 and 710 from June 1944 to date.

Work-Draft Bill Faces Opposition

Senator May Warns Extensive Changes Will Result In Measure Being Killed

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky.), chairman of the house military affairs committee, warned the senate today that extensive changes in the "work-or-draft" legislation would result in its being killed.

May, who piloted the measure for a labor draft of men between 18 and 45 for essential work, was aroused by tentative action of the senate military affairs committee in giving general supervision of the proposed law to the Office of War Mobilization, instead of local draft boards.

"We positively could not pass the bill in the house again with that amendment and I would not advocate it," said May.

May's statement was made as Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson made a new appeal for a national service law, declaring that it was imperative to make sure that the fighting forces would get men for combat replacements and essential weapons and supplies.

May criticized the War Department for the alleged change of attitude on its part in first agreeing to the amendment making War Mobilizer Byrnes the real boss of the labor draft and then privately asking senators to favor use of draft boards.

"They change their position so often you don't know where they stand," said May. "If they 'ball' this bill up, it won't become law."

Meantime the senate military affairs committee met to consider the bill under the cloud of the charge by Sen. Johnson (D-Colo.) that the War Department itself was "sabotaging" the measure.

Repatriated War Prisoners Will Visit Pittsburgh

Next Of Kin Of Prisoners In Enemy Prison Camps To Hear Of Conditions In Camps

The group of repatriated American prisoners of war, who have begun a tour of 30 American cities, as announced in an article in the February 2 News, are scheduled to be present at a meeting in Pittsburgh on Friday evening, February 9, according to announcement made at the local Red Cross chapter house today.

As arranged by the Army Air Forces in cooperation with the American Red Cross, the group has undertaken the tour to bring families of the servicemen firsthand news of conditions in enemy prison camps. Plans for the meeting in Pittsburgh on Friday evening at Carnegie hall are that the next of kin of prisoners of war who attend will divide into sections, each representing a German prison camp, and the aviators who have been in these camps will tell the families about that particular camp and the conditions there.

Seek Replacing Of Welfare Department

HARRISBURG, Feb. 5.—(INS)—The establishment of a state department of corrections replacing the "outmoded" bureau in the Welfare Department was advocated today by the Public Charities Association in a list of recommendations presented to Gov. Edward Martin.

"Our state has fallen behind other progressive states in its custodial and correction care of adult offenders and youths, partly because our legislature has not given department status to our correctional responsibilities," declared Judge Norman S. Winnet, of Philadelphia, chairman of a committee studying state departments.

A minimum $15,000,000 appropriation was suggested for construction needed in carrying out the proposed program.

"Anticipating a post-war increase in crime, we need to establish a classification center effectively to study all convicted persons so they will be placed in the proper institutions for such treatment as will enable them, on their release, to reassume their responsibilities to society," Winnet stated.

"A small administrative unit in the welfare department, called the Bureau of Corrections, now has this responsibility," he added. "Its program today is just what it was when it was formed 21 years ago."

Accidents Kill 94,000 In Nation

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—America paid a huge toll—94,000 lives—for accidents on the home front in 1944, the National Safety Council reported today.

In addition to the death toll, 9,750,000 persons were injured and the mishaps cost four billion, 850 million dollars.

Fatalities dropped 5 per cent below the 1943 figure, the council said, which meant a saving of 5,000 lives, and the death rate of 70.4 per 100,000 population was the lowest since 1922. With the exception of 1921 and 1922, it was the lowest on record.

The council said 43 states have reported their complete motor vehicle death tolls and that of this number 28 showed increases, 14 decreases and one no change. Reductions were reported by New Jersey, 11 per cent, and Pennsylvania, 4 per cent.

Among cities with more than 250,000 population, Pittsburgh had the greatest fatality reduction—40 per cent below 1943.

Two Hurt When Auto, Bus Crash

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 5.—(INS)—A Pittsburgh man and his son today were reported recovering from injuries received after their automobile was smashed by a Lincoln Coach Line bus on route 30 near Jacktown.

Police reported that Morris Paigen, 47, and his son, Gerald, 16, were taken to Westmoreland hospital, Greensburg. Hospital attaches said both suffered fractured legs and shock.

Samuel Townsley of Irwin, driver of the bus, authorities stated, apparently was unable to stop when he saw Paigen and his son attempting to disengage a bumper on their car from another because of the icy highway.

Five Are Injured In Train Wreck

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 5.—(INS)—Five persons were injured when the Iron City express of the Pennsylvania railroad, enroute from New York to Pittsburgh, collided before dawn today with a steam locomotive which had run through a switch while backing down the track near Lancaster.

Both engines were damaged but railroad officials said a serious accident was avoided by the quick thinking of the engineer, W. J. Renard of Harrisburg who slowed the express train to ten miles an hour when the automatic cab signal indicated an obstruction on the track.

Streets, Highway Very Slippery

City streets and county highways were very slippery last night and today according to city and county traffic authorities. They warned that all cars should wear chains to minimize the possibility of an accident.
